

1. How many of the ten commandments can you name from memory? Before this past Sunday, how did you view the ten Words? Has your view changed at all?

2. Read Exodus 19-20.

What significance is there in realizing that God didn't just give the ten Words to Moses, but all of Israel heard these covenantal commands?

How are God's holiness and grace demonstrated in His giving Israel the ten Words? Why is important to remember that God delivered Israel from slavery first, then gave the ten words?

How does obedience to the four "vertical" commands cause a person to obey the six "horizontal" commands? How does the first "greatest commandment" give rise to the second?

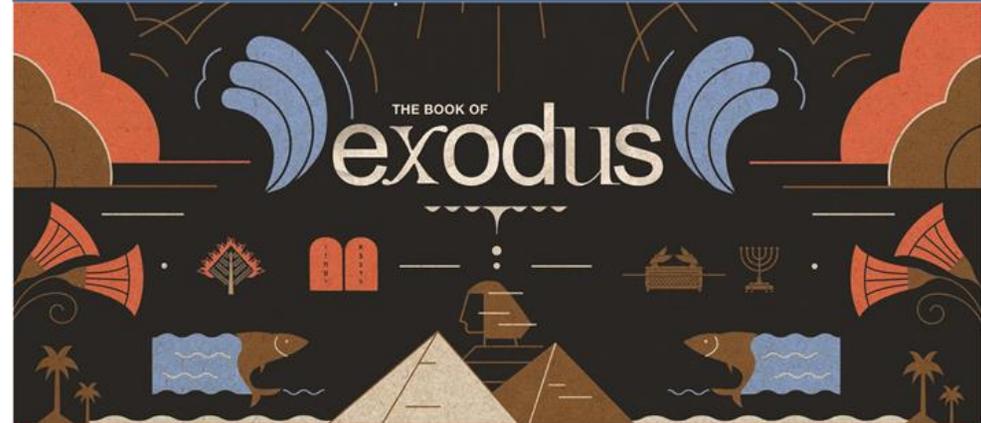

How does the first command address atheism, agnosticism, and idolatry? What do people in our culture tend to worship, and how do they express that worship?

How is jealousy a virtue in God but generally a vice in humans? Why is it good for God to demand His own worship and defend His own glory?

How does pride undermine each of these commands? How do we battle against that?

3. Why does the perfect righteousness incorporated in the 10 Words cause people to lose hope? What restores hope?

4. What's your next step?
